There were two "Sanatorial Maritim" in Rumania [REDACTED] in 1948.
One was at Cape Tugla [REDACTED] and one at Bugaz (46°04'N, 30°27'E). The latter was much the larger and neither of them were ever under Red Cross directorship.

[REDACTED] the Bugaz Sanatorial Maritim [REDACTED] its capacity at 50X1-HUM
300 beds. It had been under the direction of the Liga Contra Tuberculozei from its completion sometime between 1933 and 1937.

It is located on an alluvial deposit resembling a sand bar which runs southeasterly along the Rumanian coast from the resort town of Bugaz.
The sand bar is about four hundred yards wide, no other buildings are on it, and it is devoid of vegetation. It is on a road about three kms southeast of Bugaz and cannot be hidden nor camouflaged in any way. The beach is gently sloping and quite shallow for several hundred yards from shore.

Patients' rooms all face seaward with sun decks onto which beds are wheeled.
In summer the seaward walls of rooms are completely removed. Behind the row of rooms on the seaward side there is a hallway running the whole length of the main buildings; inland from it are the offices, operating rooms, and supporting facilities. The hospital was concerned primarily with lung surgery. The use of surgery for the treatment of bone tuber- 50X1-HUM culosis had only been experimented with.
